

Brewery industry

Experience is essential in this craft industry. Just as the head brewer is the key person in the beer-making process, the correct dosage and preparation of process water and the required additives are vital to achieving success. We are experts in this field.

Our product range has been setting the standard in the industry for years. Reliable and continuous quality ensures the success and stability of the final product.

As food additives our products are traceable and strictly comply with FCC and European regulations.