

Meat industry

With a range of additives that is small in number but important in volume, this is a sector where quality is essential.

Industry regulations allow the use of authorised additives with specified quality.

We can tailor the packaging and formulation of our blends to cater for each customer's needs.

Traceability and compliance with food additive regulations (FCC and European regulations) are essential to ensure the quality and success of the product.